Field of Study: Business Law and Behavioural Ethics

Prerequisites: Participants should either be practicing bankruptcy attorneys, judges, professors, or law students studying bankruptcy; or be CPA's or Financial Advisors or business students studying bankruptcy.

Advanced Preparation: None, but materials will be posted online before the Course begins.

Program Level: Intermediate

Delivery Method: Group Live.

Fees and Cancellations:

Regular Fellows: $400

Academics: $200

Judges: free

Inductees: free

Participants will:

- Panelists will discuss the College's DEI mission, its practical implementation in the College's governance, and ongoing work, and its continued relevance in a skeptical and polarized professional and political environment.
- Learn from war stories of the unusual series of events that guided them into practicing bankruptcy law and of the mentors that helped them along the way. The program will acquaint attendees with the realities of the profession and the evolving role of a bankruptcy professional.
- Discuss the things bankruptcy lawyers need to know about to position their cases for when the other side inevitably loses and appeals, including protecting your record in the trial court, brief and oral argument tips, and how appellate judges, especially those without the bankruptcy experience of the panelists, approach cases before them.

- Understand more Chapter 15 proceedings to be able to enforce judgments obtained in foreign courts. This is their opportunity to hear from judges who have issued orders and written opinions about the enforcement of foreign judgments in chapter 15 and from a notable professor who has written extensively about UNCITRAL Model Laws.
- Enjoy a lively discussion based on the legislation introduced in 2021 by Senator Elizabeth Warren that would dramatically change the process and rules surrounding consumer bankruptcy and in 2022 that would curtail third party releases in chapter 11 cases. The consumer bill would replace chapter 7 and chapter 13 with a new "chapter 10." Senator Warren's Counsel will join in a lively discussion on the consumer bill and on the bill restricting third party releases.
